Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making
Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th July, 1895:

NO. 10 OF 1895.

A Bill to amend the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879; It is hereby enacted as follows: ^{giving}

1. To section 11 of the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879, the following shall be added, namely:

"The act of desertion from any body of Imperial Service Troops shall be deemed to be an offence in respect of which the Political Agent for the State to which such troops belong may issue a warrant under this section."

2. In section 12 of the said Act, after the words "and the accused person, when arrested, shall," the words "unless released on bail in accordance with the provisions of the next following section" shall be inserted.

3. After section 12 of the said Act the following sections shall be inserted, namely:

"12A. A Political Agent issuing a warrant for the arrest of any person under section 11 may in his discretion direct by endorsement thereon that, if such person execute a bond with sufficient sureties for his attendance before the officer mentioned in the warrant at a specified time, the Magistrate to whom the warrant is directed shall take such security and release such person from custody."

"The endorsement shall state (a) the number of sureties (if any), (b) the amount in which they and the person for whose arrest the warrant is issued are to be respectively bound, and (c) the time and place at which he is to attend before the officer mentioned in the warrant."

"Whenever security is taken under this section, the Magistrate shall certify the fact to the Political Agent by whom the warrant was issued, and shall retain the bond."

"12B. If the person bound by any bond executed under the last foregoing section to appear before the officer mentioned therein does not so appear, the Magistrate may, on being satisfied as to his default, issue a warrant directing that he be re-arrested and delivered over to such officer."

"12C. The provisions of sections 513 and 514 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, shall apply in the case of every bond required to be executed or which may have been executed in accordance with the foregoing provisions."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

There is not now any legal authority for the extradition from British India of a deserter from the Imperial Service Corps. These corps are raised, drilled and maintained under the supervision of British officers at the expense of certain Native States in order to form part of the military forces of Her Majesty, and it seems reasonable that the surrender of deserters therefrom to British India should be provided for. The object of this Bill is, by means of an amendment of section 11 of the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879, making such desertion an offence in respect of which warrants for arrest may be issued, to give Political Agents the necessary power to obtain extradition in these cases.

Many offences of a comparatively trivial kind are extraditable, but the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879, does not provide for the enlargement on bail of a person arrested under a warrant issued by a Political Agent under section 11 thereof. To remedy this defect it is proposed by this Bill to embody in that Act the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure which admit of the release of a person arrested under a warrant on his furnishing security, to the satisfaction of a Magistrate, for his due appearance.

Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th July, 1895:

NO. 11 OF 1895.

A Bill to amend the Indian Penal Code.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Penal Code of 1860; It is hereby enacted as follows:

I. (1) To section 230 of the said Code the following shall be added, namely:

"Any piece of metal which has at any time been the Queen's coin as above defined shall be deemed to be the Queen's coin for the purposes of this Chapter notwithstanding that it may have ceased to be used as money."

(2) To the illustrations appended to the said section the following shall be added, namely:

"(c) The 'Farukhabad rupee', which was formerly used as money under the authority of the Government of India, is Queen's coin, although it is no longer so used."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

AS section 230 of the Indian Penal Code now stands, pieces of metal alleged to be "coin" and "Queen's coin" must be "used for the time being as money" in order to fall within the definitions there given. The Indian Coinage Act, 1870, enables the Governor General in Council, by notification in the Gazette of India, to call in coins of any date or denomination, and it would not unlikely be held that coin of any denomination so called in was not "used for the time being as money," at any rate when after a space of time it became sufficiently scarce. With coin of this kind, however, fraud can be committed of exactly the same character as before the calling in, and the same reasons apply to prevention of the counterfeiting coin that is so called in as apply to the coin before being called in—until at least the coin ceases to have any but a numismatic value.

2. Farukhabad rupees, which were formerly in use and circulation as legal tender in Bengal, under the authority of the Government of India, were called in in 1887, and are therefore not covered by the definition as it stands. They are (or very recently were) not altogether out of use as money in some of the Native States. They were recently extensively manufactured in Bombay; and it is considered necessary to take legal power to stop this manufacture.

9. (1) No pilgrim ship shall commence a voyage from a port or place appointed under this Act, unless the master holds two certificates to the effect mentioned in the two next following sections. [S. 9, ibid.]

(2) The officer whose duty it is to grant a port-clearance shall not grant it unless the master holds those certificates.

10. The first of the certificates (hereinafter called "certificate A") shall state that the ship is seaworthy and properly equipped, fitted and ventilated, and the number of pilgrims which she is capable of carrying. [S. 10, ibid.]

11. The second of the certificates (hereinafter called "certificate B") shall state— [S. 11, ibid.]

(a) the voyage which the ship is to make, and the intermediate ports (if any) at which she is to touch;

(b) that she has the proper complement of officers and seamen;

(c) that food, fuel and pure water over and above what is necessary for the crew, and the other things (if any) prescribed for pilgrim ships by the rules under this Act, have been placed on board, of the quality prescribed by the rules, properly packed, and sufficient to supply the pilgrims on board during the voyage which she is to make (including such detention in quarantine as may be probable) according to the scale for the time being prescribed by those rules;

- (d) that the master holds certificate A;
- (e) that she is propelled principally by steam;
- (f) that, if she is to carry more than one hundred pilgrims, she has on board the medical officer, or medical officers, required by section 23, licensed in accordance with the rules under this Act; and
- (g) such other particulars (if any) as may be prescribed by the rules under this Act.

[S. 12, ibid.] 12. The person by whom certificate A and certificate B are to be granted shall be the officer appointed under section 7.

[S. 13, ibid.] 13. Where the master of a pilgrim ship produces to that officer either of the following certificates, namely,—

- (a) a valid certificate granted by the Board of Trade or by a British Colonial Government, or
- (b) a certificate granted under the authority of a British Indian Government on a date not more than one year before the proposed day of sailing and in force and applicable to the voyage on which the ship is to proceed or the service on which she is about to be employed, the officer may, if the particulars required by section 10 are certified thereby, take the certificate as evidence of those particulars, and it shall then be deemed to be a certificate A for the purposes of this Act.

[S. 14, ibid.] 14. (1) After receiving the notice required by section 7, the officer appointed under that section may, if he thinks fit, cause the ship to be surveyed at the expense of the master or owner by competent surveyors, who shall report to him whether she is, in their opinion, seaworthy and properly equipped, fitted and ventilated for the conveyance of pilgrims:

Provided that he shall not cause a pilgrim ship holding a certificate mentioned in section 13, clause (a) or clause (b), to be surveyed unless, by reason of her having met with damage or having undergone alterations, or on any other reasonable ground, he considers it likely that she may be found unseaworthy or not properly equipped, fitted or ventilated for the conveyance of pilgrims.

(2) If the officer causes a survey to be made of a pilgrim ship holding any such certificate, and the surveyors report that she is seaworthy and properly equipped, fitted and ventilated for the conveyance of pilgrims, and that there was no reasonable ground why the officer should have thought it likely that she would be found unseaworthy, or not properly equipped, fitted or ventilated for such traffic, the expense of the survey shall be paid by the Local Government.

15. (1) The officer authorized to grant a certificate under this Act in respect of a pilgrim ship shall not grant it unless he is satisfied that she has on board no cargo likely from its quality, quantity or mode of stowage to prejudice the health or safety of the pilgrims embarked. [S. 15, ibid.]

(2) But save as aforesaid, and subject to the provisions of sub-section (3), it shall be in the discretion of the officer to grant or withhold a certificate under this Act.

(3) In the exercise of that discretion such officer shall be subject to the control of the Local Government and of any intermediate authority which that Government appoints in this behalf.

16. The master or owner of every pilgrim ship shall post up in a conspicuous part of her, so as to be visible to persons on board, a copy of each of the certificates granted under this Act in respect thereof, and shall keep those copies so posted up throughout the voyage. [S. 16 ibid.]

17. If an officer appointed in this behalf by the Local Government is satisfied that a pilgrim has brought on board a pilgrim ship for his own use food of the quality and in the quantity for the time being prescribed by the rules under this Act, the requirements of this Act respecting the supply of food for pilgrims shall not apply so far as regards the supply of food for that pilgrim. [S. 17, ibid.]

18. (1) The Governor General in Council may by order prescribe the number of superficial and cubic feet of space (not being less than the space for the time being required for passengers under any Act for the regulation of passenger ships) to be available in the between-decks for pilgrims on board pilgrim ships. [S. 18, ibid.]

(2) Every pilgrim ship shall have reserved for the use of the pilgrims on board gratuitously by day and by night the upper deck (exclusive of the portion set apart for first and second class passengers, the airing space for the crew and any space which may be reserved as a hospital for the passengers).

(3) In addition to the space provided for by sub-sections (1) and (2), there shall be a hospital on board every pilgrim ship capable of accommodating five per cent. of the pilgrims embarked, thirty-two superficial feet being allowed per head.

19. The master of every pilgrim ship departing or proceeding from any port or place in British India shall sign two statements, specifying the number and the respective sexes of all the pilgrims embarked and the number of the crew, and shall deliver them to the officer appointed under section 7, who shall thereupon, after having first satisfied himself that the numbers are correct, countersign and return to the master one of the statements. [S. 19, ibid.]

20. The master of every pilgrim ship shall note in writing on the statement returned to him, and on any additional statement to be made

(a) if after a pilgrim ship has departed or proceeded on her voyage any additional pilgrims are taken on board at a port or place within British India appointed under this Act for the embarkation of pilgrims, or

(b) if a pilgrim ship upon her voyage touches or arrives at any such port or place, having previously received on board additional pilgrims at any place beyond British India, the master shall obtain a fresh certificate to the effect of certificate B from the officer appointed at that port or place under section 7, and shall make additional statements specifying the number and the respective sexes of all the additional pilgrims.

(2) All the foregoing provisions of this Act with respect to certificate B and statements concerning pilgrims shall be applicable to any certificate granted or statement made under this section.

Appointment of officers.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to give effect to recommendations, made by the International Sanitary Conference held at Paris in 1894 and accepted by Her Majesty's Government, for the regulation of the Muhammadan pilgrim traffic by sea between British India and Arabia. Vessels engaged in that traffic are at present governed by the Native Passenger Ships Act, 1887; but, as that Act contains, besides special provisions applying to pilgrim ships, provisions of general application to ships carrying natives of Asia or Africa as passengers, it appears to be the most convenient course, instead of attempting to amend it to meet the special circumstances of the case, to remove altogether from its operation pilgrim ships and to provide for them in a separate enactment such as that now proposed. This Bill, it will be found from the marginal references, reproduces, with such amendments as are necessary to carry out the object stated above, all the sections contained in Act X of 1887 except sections 18, 19, 20, 21, 37, 55 and 57, some of which are on the face of them inapplicable in the case of ships making the long voyage from British India to foreign ports in the Red Sea. The more important of the amendments made in the provisions of the existing enactment are noticed below.

2. Section 4 of the Bill repeals the Native Passenger Ships Act so far as regards "pilgrim ships," and section 5, besides defining a "pilgrim" and a "pilgrim ship," provides that no vessel shall come within the purview of the proposed Act unless, besides ordinary passengers, among whom may be included pilgrims not of the lowest class, it has on board pilgrims of the lowest class in a proportion of at least one to every hundred tons of the gross tonnage. In accordance with the terms of the Convention, every individual Muhammadan passenger of whatever age, making the voyage to or from the Hedjaz, is to be reckoned as a pilgrim.

3. In section 7 of the Bill it is provided that at least three days' (instead of twenty-four hours') notice beforehand shall be given of the sailing and destination of a pilgrim ship.

4. Section 21 of Act X of 1887 fixes the minimum space to be made available for passengers on long voyages, while section 56 enables the Governor General in Council, notwithstanding the earlier provision, to prescribe by order the number of superficial or of cubic feet to be allowed. Sub-section (1) of section 18 of the Bill omits the former, but includes the latter, provision, it having been decided that the increase of space, on which much stress was laid at the Conference, should be provided for by executive order in this way. The remaining sub-sections (2) and (3) give effect to the recommendations of the Conference as to the reservation of the upper deck for the use of pilgrims by day and by night and the hospital accommodation to be set apart for their benefit.

5. By section 23 of the Bill, which for the rest reproduces section 26 of the Native Passenger Ships Act, the presence of a second medical officer on board is, in accordance with the Convention, required if the number of pilgrims carried exceeds one thousand.

6. Section 24 of the Bill reproduces section 27 of the Native Passenger Ships Act, so modified as to dispense with the unnecessary and often inconvenient call at Aden on the return journey to India, which is at present compulsory. This change is not required by the Convention, but is in no way opposed thereto.

7. By section 27 of the Bill, which corresponds to section 30 of the Native Passenger Ships Act, it is provided, as recommended by the Conference, that the medical examination of all pilgrims shall take place on land prior to embarkation, that persons suffering from cholera or choleraic diarrhoea or any dangerously infectious or contagious disease shall not be permitted to embark, that the embarkation of others who have been in attendance upon or otherwise in contact with persons so affected may, at the discretion of a duly appointed medical officer, be forbidden, and that contaminated articles shall not be taken on board without having been first disinfected under the supervision of a medical officer as aforesaid.

8. Section 28 of the Bill is an entirely new provision based on the Convention, and is to the effect that all the sanitary taxes levied at the ports visited shall be paid by the master, who is left to recover the amount, by arranging to have it included in the price of the tickets issued or otherwise, from the pilgrims concerned.

9. The remaining alterations are either consequential on those already explained or are of an unimportant character, and do not, therefore, call for further notice or explanation.

[S. 35, ibid.]

33. If the master of a pilgrim ship, after having obtained any of the certificates mentioned in section 9 or section 21, fraudulently does or suffers to be done anything whereby the certificate becomes inapplicable to the altered state of the ship, the pilgrims on board or other matters to which the certificate relates, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to two thousand rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with both.

Penalty on master for fraudulent alteration in pilgrim ship after certificate obtained.

34. Penalty on master for failing to supply pilgrims with prescribed provisions.

35. If a pilgrim ship has on board a number of pilgrims greater either than the number allowed under this Act or than the number allowed by the license or certificate (if any), granted at her port or place of departure, the master and owner shall, for every pilgrim in excess of that number, be each punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

Penalty on master and owner for carrying pilgrims in excess of authorized number.

36. If the master of a pilgrim ship lands any pilgrim at any port or place other than the port or place at which such pilgrim may have contracted to land, unless with his previous consent or unless the landing is made necessary by perils of the sea or other unavoidable accident, he shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month, or with both.

Penalty on master for landing pilgrim at a place other than that at which he has contracted to land.

37. If a pilgrim ship, otherwise than by reason of perils of the sea or other unavoidable accident, touches at any port or place in contravention of any express or implied contract or engagement with the pilgrims with respect to the voyage which the ship was to make and the time which that voyage was to occupy, whether the contract or engagement was made by public advertisement or otherwise, the master and owner shall each be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with both.

Penalty on master and owner for making voyage in contravention of contract with pilgrims.

38. If a pilgrim ship is not propelled principally by steam as required by section 22, the master and owner shall each be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with imprisonment which may extend to three months, or with both.

Penalty on master and owner of pilgrim ship not propelled principally by steam.

39. If a pilgrim ship carrying more than one hundred pilgrims has not on board a medical officer, or two medical officers if the number of pilgrims carried exceed one thousand, as required by section 23, the master shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with both.

Penalty on master of pilgrim ship sailing without medical officer or officers in contravention of section 23.

40. If the master of a pilgrim ship proceeding from any port in British India other than Aden to any port in the Red Sea without reasonable excuse, the burden of proving which shall lie upon him, fails to touch at Aden, or leaves that port without having obtained a bill of health as required by section 24, sub-section (1), he shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to two thousand rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with both.

The Pilgrim Ships Bill.

(Penalties.—Sections 41-42. Procedure.—Sections 43-47. Supplemental.—Sections 48-50.)

[S. 47, ibid.] 44. For the purpose of the adjudication of penalties under this Act, every offence against its provisions shall be deemed to have been committed within the limits of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the place where the offender is found.

[S. 48, ibid.] 45. The penalties to which masters and owners of pilgrim ships are made liable by this Act shall be enforced only on information laid at the instance of officers appointed to grant certificates under this Act, or, at any port or place where there is no such officer, at the instance of the Chief Customs-officer.

49. GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.
LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th July, 1895:

NO. 13 OF 1895.

A Bill to amend sections 632 and 652 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend sections XIV of 1882, 632 and 652 of the Code of Civil Procedure; It is hereby enacted as follows:

1. In section 632 of the said Code, after the word "chapter" the words "and figures "and in section 652" shall be added.

2. To section 652 of the said Code the following shall be added, namely:

"Notwithstanding anything in this Code contained, any High Court established under the said Act for establishing High Courts of Judicature in India may make such rules consistent with the Letters Patent establishing it to regulate its own procedure in the exercise of its original civil jurisdiction, as it shall think fit.

"All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

SECTION 652 of the Code of Civil Procedure, as it now stands, purports to require that any rules to regulate its own procedure made by a High Court, even although it be established by Royal Charter, shall be consistent with that Code. The Letters Patent of the High Courts at Fort William, Madras and Bombay, appear, however, to recognise the practical expediency of leaving such High Courts some latitude in the direction of adapting the provisions of the ordinary law to meet their requirements. It has been found by experience that those provisions are not in all respects convenient in the case of original proceedings in those Courts, and the object of this Bill is, by an amendment of section 652 and an ancillary amendment of section 632, to bring the Code into perfect harmony with the provisions of those Letters Patent and to enable the High Courts referred to to regulate the exercise of their original civil jurisdiction accordingly.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION—No. 2675.

The 6th August 1895.—The following papers regarding the working of the Indian Factories Act in Bengal, during the year 1894, are published for general information.

C. E. BUCKLAND,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 77, dated Calcutta, the 28th March 1895.

From—C. A. WALSH, Esq., A.M.I.C.E., Special Inspector of Factories,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit my annual report on the working of the Indian Factories Act in Bengal for the year ending December 1894.

I am glad to be able to report that the provisions of the Act have on the whole been well observed throughout the year. There are at present on the register of factories 14 in the town of Calcutta, 60 in 24-Parganas, 31 in the Howrah district, 6 in Hooghly, and 19 scattered over the other districts of Bengal. Excluding jute presses at Narayanganj, of which there are 34, the majority of these presses are hand boomer presses, but I notice they are gradually being replaced by hydraulic boomer ones. They work on and off for a season extending a little over six months. Besides these, there are a number temporarily erected in Northern Bengal and Assam which I have not inspected, as it would necessitate continual travelling to no useful purpose; in fact, these presses might well be included in the category of tea and indigo plantations referred to in section 2 of the Act.

Two large mills were opened during the year—one in January for the manufacture of paper, and a jute mill in December situated in Chandernagore;* the latter being in French territory will not come within the jurisdiction of the Act. Should other mills contemplate extending their business by erecting new mills, French territory will afford them the opportunity like Gondalpara of working the mill without the annoyance of possible further interference from home in factory matters. One jute mill that has been closed for the past 18 months was re-opened in October; two other mills were closed for short periods, and the majority only worked five days a week from 1st of April till the end of June, due to the scarcity of jute and the high prices prevailing; but the new season jute, which was the largest crop on record, has since kept all mills working full time. The Hastings mill in March commenced a system of working at night as well as day in shifts by the aid of the electric light. This night work had been carefully considered by the owners before its introduction, and every effort was made by them to keep within and strictly observe the factory regulations. A number of young persons were employed in the night shift, but all appeared well over 14. I found it necessary to make some alterations in the intervals allowed for women, which were readily adopted by the manager. The mill was frequently inspected during the night working by the Civil Surgeon of Serampore, and he was satisfied regarding the ages of the operatives. I noticed many spinning frames standing for want of labour at the time of my first inspection, although a number of children applied at the gates for work; they were disqualified from entering as being too young. It is questionable whether the system will be maintained for long, as there are certain manifest objections, apart from the increased expenditure, in having to employ boys of 16 and 18 as shifters at the spinning frames.

Night work.

The increased demand for labour has induced, and in all possibility will continue to induce, a large number of new hands to settle in the vicinity of mills, and more attention might be paid by owners and managers to provide suitable accommodation for them. The quarters in which the operatives live need, I think, investigation. Glance over the boundary wall of Barnagore,† or walk a hundred yards from Shamnagore, Titaghur or other large mill, and look at the miserable quarters of those whose lot it is to labour daily in the mill. A collection of filthy hovels meets the eye, constructed rudely of mud thatched with grass or old kerosine oil tins flattened out, devoid of drainage, and too crowded for a proper supply of air. It remains a marvel how human life, however accustomed to insanitary surroundings, can survive. When it is considered that so many mills are paying large dividend, it is surely not too much to ask that a few thousand rupees be annually spent on improved, well-drained, ventilated pukka quarters for the operatives, together with public latrines and urinals similar to those provided by Messrs. David and Company, Ralli Brothers, and other jute pressing firms at Narayan-ganj. Much has been done by some mills to provide decent housing for the workers, and more would be done if the municipalities would render some assistance in aiding the mill owners to acquire land for the purpose of building and allowing them to fill up cess-pools, and generally to improve the sanitary condition of these mill surroundings.

2. Improvement is noticeable in the latrines each year. Many that were originally constructed in a temporary manner of old material have been replaced by new well-built brick ones with cemented floors, or built of corrugated iron, known as Horbury's patent. There is still room for improvement, and a number of mills require additional accommodation to keep pace with the mill extensions and extra hands now employed. It is satisfactory for me to be able to report the improvements that have taken place in the conservancy arrangements at the East Indian Railway shops at Jamalpore. Formerly I had occasion to call attention to the limited space allotted for burying night-soil and its vicinity to the shops. The Locomotive Superintendent has now completed a small tram line to convey the night-soil to a suitable locality, well removed from the neighbourhood of the shops, and has received an offer from a native of Rs. 40 a bigha for every bigha that is manured. This is the first instance that has come to my notice of a native appreciating the value of this manure as a fertilising agent, and I hope to see other factories follow in the same lines. The time, I think, is not far distant when every manager (outside municipal limits) will see that proper use is made of night-soil on ground trenched for cultivation, instead of burying it as is at present done in some instances I can call to mind. I presume municipalities take advantage of the trenching system for the disposal of night-soil. Whether this is the case in every instance I am unable to say.

The mills are generally lime-washed annually. A few workshops and jute presses were called upon during the year to conform to the rules regarding periodical lime-washing; and the work was put in hand without undue delay. A plentiful supply of water is obtainable in the mills, but not in every instance is the water filtered. However, filtering beds and tanks are gradually being introduced, for it is noticed that unless the water is filtered in large quantities the operatives will not readily take to it.

Lime-washing.

Drinking-water.

The climate of Bengal, where cotton factories are situated, may, for the greater part of the year, be considered suitable for cotton spinning without resorting to artificial means to procure the required humidity. The mills with one exception are built on the banks of the river Hooghly, which may assist in a small way to moisten the dry air when the hot winds are blowing. I observe that throughout the year the air in the morning at 8 A.M. contains a considerable quantity of moisture, and during the months of January and February approaches saturation,* and averaging some 70 per cent. in March, 80 per cent. in April, and somewhat higher percentage of humidity in May and June. During the rainy season, or in July, August, and September, the moisture registered in the morning remains fairly constant during the day; but in the absence of rain after 10 A.M. the moisture generally falls considerably below normal (50 per cent.) at such times, and during the dry season the mills frequently resort to watering the floors or placing matting against the windows, which is constantly kept watered. In one mill humidifiers are worked when necessary, and drasophors (a patent water spray) are about to be introduced in two others. The latter appliance appears to be in general favour, although I noticed in a mill at Cawnpore in which the drasophors were at work the effect was very local, and a hygrometer placed a few feet outside the radius of the water spray hardly registered any moisture beyond what was noticeable in rooms not using the drasophors. The effect of these water sprays on the operatives has a cooling effect, but the air should then be extracted before it becomes heated. I had some conversation with the Inspector of Humidity in Manchester during the summer of 1893, and he corroborated the opinion given in Mr. Wallace's "Sanitation in India" regarding the use of artificial moisture in mills, which I quote below:—"By a fortunate coincidence the best conditions for cotton spinning are also favourable to the health of the operatives, but the moistening of the air should not be permitted or attempted without an adequate provision for the supply of fresh air to carry off the vapours as soon as it becomes too hot." It is well known that the dry air causes the yarn to break at the spinning frames, and is detrimental to the fibre in the process of carding. For this reason the windows are closed, but managers will frequently inform Inspectors that the natives prefer them shut, and when left open they (the natives) will immediately shut them directly your back is turned. This is true, but not because they prefer a close humid atmosphere to work in in preference to fresh air, but because the open windows cause additional labour in piecing the yarn, and possibly less wages as they are paid on the gross outturn. I, however, generally found a suitable number of windows open in the mills, which afford good lateral ventilation, but this has not always been the case, and I think mill managers would study their own interest if they placed air propellers in the carding and spinning rooms, and thus ensure a constant gradual change of air.

It is interesting to note how inapplicable are the rules laid down to regulate the temperature in home mills when applied to this country. In the Cotton Cloth Factories Act of 1889 any one exceeding a humidity of over 78 per cent. when the dry bulb thermometer registered over 80° would be fined, but in Bengal the mills have frequently to work with a humidity equal to saturation, the same humidity being registered by the Meteorological Society in the open. Such an excess of humidity in the home mills raised artificially with steam would be extremely harmful to the operatives, but the conditions here are very different. In Bengal the variations between the temperatures of the inside and outside of a mill are slight, and would seldom exceed 10° Fahrenheit.

3. A certain amount of sickness has occurred amongst the operatives in certain districts during the rainy season; but I am not aware whether the death-rate is above the average. The medical officers of the various districts will doubtless supply information on this point. I have already alluded to the unhealthy conditions under which so many of the native workers live, and I would here only reiterate what I have already urged that attention be given to improve these quarters.

4. The working hours in the mills, with the exception of the Hastings mill, remain the same. A few mills have ordered the electric light to increase the hours during the short days of the cold-weather months; and, while abundance of labour is always to be obtained in this country, it is doubtful if one would be justified in restricting the hours, considering the system of shifts that Indian mills adopt, and remembering the increased number of hands employed when compared with Dundee mills. As pointed out in my last report, it may also be said the majority of the workers are land-owners, and this fact may account for the quantity of leave annually taken. This is noticeable both in mills and workshops, and although the natives ask for leave, as a matter of form they take it, whether granted or not, which I think goes to prove that they are not entirely dependent on the mills as the Dundee and Lancashire operatives are.

5. I have no special remark to make regarding the employment of women and children beyond what I have already stated in previous reports. A very large number find employment in these mills (as will be observed from reference to Form I). The labour required may be termed "unskilled" except in the spinning and weaving. This offers employment to a number of old women that may occasionally be noticed feeding the carding and jute-softening machines, and I have always regarded the employment of such as creditable to the managers concerned, for it is evident they can be of little service except in so far as relieving others during the interval, or when younger members of the family are sick. This renders it possible for them to live with the family, and avoid becoming a burden on them, being able to contribute the little they earn towards the keep of the house. So long as the mill engine is constantly kept working from morning till evening, the number of women and children—I might almost add adults—employed is a matter of secondary consideration, but this is necessary if all the machines are to work, as so many daily absent themselves from Indian mills.

6. During the year there were 10 fatal accidents and 127 accidents reported as serious and 206 as slight. Taking the total number of persons employed from last year's return, viz. 139,973, or, say, 140,000, represent an average of 1 in 400 injured, or .245 per cent. I have no statistics showing the number of accidents that occur during the year in English factories; consequently am unable to make any comparison, or to state if this percentage is small. My impression is it would compare favourably with any other country. Regarding the fatal accidents mentioned above, three were caused from adjusting belts when the machinery was in motion (a large number of accidents occur annually in home mills from this cause, and no satisfactory means has yet been devised to prevent them), two men were crushed while shunting wagons on the factory sidings, one man was killed by falling down the hold of a ship docking in the Rivers Steam Navigation Company's dockyard, another lost his life by a bale of paper falling from the sling on him when loading in a boat, and one was killed by falling on the doffer roller of a jute-carding machine while he was engaged in cleaning it. Some serious accidents were noticeable amongst those reported, but on the other hand a number of slight accidents reported can hardly be considered accidents. Many of them consist of slight bruises, cuts, and falls.

During the month of September I issued a circular letter to all managers of mills and workshops of both provinces, pointing out the serious accidents that had occurred from adjusting belts while the machinery was in motion; for I considered it desirable that those in charge of machinery should be made aware of the danger of allowing men to replace belts that are not specially trained for the work. I also suggested a larger use of belt hangers, &c. A few accidents of serious nature occur annually to those working the jute-softening machine. Under these circumstances, I think it should be made compulsory to fix a self-travelling cloth at the delivery end of these machines, to avoid the necessity of taking the jute direct from the rollers. This arrangement has been fixed in a few mills with satisfactory results, and is preferable to inserting two smooth rollers (occasionally done), as they are apt to cause the jute to become jammed. The managers are, with few exceptions, most willing to adopt any device that will reduce accident if practicable, and I find the machinery generally better protected than will be found in English mills.

7. Some excellent work has been done by the Civil Surgeons in sanitary matters, also in bringing about a better supply of water, and their periodical inspection of children in the mill has a tendency to keep out small children which would otherwise creep in. I notice in some instances that warning is sent by the Civil Surgeon, intimating the date of his intended visit. I think for various reasons it would be preferable not to send any advice, as a more accurate knowledge of the mill working would then be gained. I should be glad if the Medical Inspectors would especially note the conditions of the atmosphere in cotton mills during the dry weather, as the windows at that time will be found generally closed, and ventilation insufficient.

8. A few serious fires have taken place during the year in both jute press godowns and jute mill godowns. I think it strange that mill owners and Life Insurance Companies do not make use of such means as are well known to be effective in preventing fires, knowing how difficult it is to extinguish jute when it once catches fire. A steam pipe carried into each godown, with outside means of closing the ventilators, would in time of fire at least enable every available engine to proceed to the mill before any appreciable damage would be done.

In concluding I must thank the Magistrates for the help they have rendered me by enforcing orders that have occasionally been neglected. Slight errors will always be noticeable, many of which are almost excusable when it is known how much an Indian mill manager has to contend with in dealing from morn till night with large numbers of men, which cannot always be relied on, to exert themselves in the interest of the mill.

No. 208T.G., dated Darjeeling, the 30th June 1895.

From—C. E. BUCKLAND, Esq., C.I.E., Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department.

I AM directed to submit the Report on the working of the Indian Factories Act, XV of 1881, as amended by Act XI of 1891, in Bengal during the year 1894. The prescribed statements, Forms I and II, are appended. The only change in the rules which took place during the year was a change in Form B (the form in which remarks of Inspecting Officers are recorded) and of the instructions relating thereto. A copy of the notification of 5th February 1895, containing the latest revision of the instructions, is appended to this report.

A jute mill, called the Imperial Jute Mill, was opened in December 1894 at Gondalpara in Chandernagore, but being in French territory, does not come under the operation of the Factory Act. Mr. Walsh, the Special Inspector, remarks on this that similar extensions are likely to be widely made, as French territory will afford them the opportunity of working the mill without the annoyance of possible further interference from England in factory matters.

2. Number of factories and the system of work.—There were 158 factories under the operation of the Act in Bengal at the commencement of the year. Twelve were brought under the Act during the year, namely, one cotton mill and one jute press in Howrah; one jute press in Jalpaiguri; seven jute presses in Dacca; one bone-crushing mill and one match factory in the 24-Parganas. Eight factories were closed or excluded from the operation of the Act. The match factory was closed before the end of the year, as were also four jute presses in Dacca; and the three jute presses named in the margin were exempted either because the number of hands working in them had fallen below 50, or because they had been worked for less than four months in the year. Thus the year closed with 162 factories on the list. A majority of the jute mills worked for only five days a week, from 1st April till the end of June, owing to the scarcity of jute and the high prices prevailing; but the jute crop of 1894, which was the largest crop on record, has since kept all mills working full time. In 71 factories work was carried on by shifts or sets, and in 75 by midday stoppages, while the remainder worked otherwise. The number of factories exempted from the rule requiring a Sunday or weekly holiday was 61, against 57 in the previous year. The four additional factories were jute presses—1 in Calcutta and 3 in Dacca.

The Hastings Jute Mill at Serampore commenced, in March 1894, a system of working by shifts at night as well in the day time by the aid of electric light. A question was asked in the House of Commons in regard to this system of work, and at the request of the Secretary of State for India, the Government of India called for a report on the facts. The Lieutenant-Governor, after due enquiry, was satisfied that the owners of the mill had not infringed the law in any respect. The services of the few boys employed at night, to whom exception was taken by the Civil Surgeon, were promptly dispensed with. A report to this effect was submitted to the Government of India with this Government's letter No. 138T.G., dated the 16th September 1894.

3. Inspections.—The total number of inspections held during the year was 626, against 509 in the previous year. Thus, on an average, each factory was inspected nearly four times. The number of inspections held by medical officers rose from 201 in the previous year to 267 in the year under review.

There are only two cases in which no inspection was made during the year; in one the factory was closed throughout the year: in the other, which occurred at Jalpaiguri, an explanation has been called for.

4. Results of inspection.—The results of inspections were generally satisfactory. The registers prescribed were found to be duly kept, and the periodical returns were submitted in due time. The suggestions of the inspecting officers received full and prompt attention from the managers of factories.

Mr. Walsh, the Special Inspector of Factories, says that he has noticed in some instances that warning is sent by the Civil Surgeon of the date of his intended visit, and he thinks that it would be preferable not to send any such intimation, as a more accurate knowledge of the working of mills would then be gained. The Lieutenant-Governor will cause the suggestion to be made to them that as a rule surprise visits are likely to be most effective. There are certain cases, however, as, for instance, where Civil Surgeon wants to have all the children mustered before him on his arrival, when it is essential for him to send notice beforehand.

5. Sanitary condition and sanitary arrangements in factories.—As reported in the previous year, the sanitary condition of the factories and the sanitary arrangements in them were generally satisfactory. The buildings were kept clean and well ventilated, and accommodation in them was sufficient. The rule as to periodical lime-washing was duly observed.

6. Quarters for the operatives.—Mr. C. A. Walsh, the Special Inspector of Factories, makes the following remarks regarding the accommodation for operatives:—

“The increased demand for labour has induced, and in all possibility will continue to induce, a large number of new hands to settle in the vicinity of mills, and more attention might be paid by owners and managers to provide suitable accommodation for them. The quarters in which the operatives live need, I think, investigation. Glance over the boundary wall of Barnagore, or walk a hundred yards from Shamnagore, Titaghur or other large mill, and look at the miserable quarters of those whose lot it is to labour daily in the mill. A collection of filthy hovels meets the eye, constructed rudely of mud thatched with grass or old kerosine oil tins flattened out, devoid of drainage, and too crowded for a proper supply of air. It remains a marvel how human life, however accustomed to insanitary surroundings, can survive. When it is considered that so many mills are paying large dividends, it is surely not too much to ask that a few thousand rupees be annually spent on improved, well-drained, ventilated pukka quarters for the operatives, together with public latrines and urinals, similar to those provided by Messrs. David and Company, Ralli Brothers, and other jute-pressing firms at Narayanganj. Much has been done by some mills to provide decent housing for the workers, and more would be done if the municipalities would render some assistance in aiding the mill-owners to acquire lands for the purpose of building, and allowing them to fill up cess-pools, and generally to improve the sanitary condition of these mill surroundings.”

The owners of factories are under no legal obligation to attend to the sanitary wants of their employes when outside the limits of the factory; this duty devolves on the municipality, if any such exists. At the same time His Honour is persuaded that factory owners would find any money spent in this manner to be well laid out, owing to the improvement that would result in the health, contentment and regularity of attendance of their workmen.

The insanitary condition of the bastis inhabited by the employes of the factories at Garden Reach was referred to in paragraph 6 of the report for 1893. The main evils in this case (for the remedying of which the Municipal Administration is responsible) are (1) the overcrowding of the houses, (2) want of proper drainage, (3) want of good water-supply, and (4) want of an efficient system of conservancy. The Chairman of the Municipality has been directed to take immediate steps to initiate the necessary measures for removing these complaints.

7. Vaccination of operatives.—In paragraph 11 of the report for the year 1892, it was stated that the question of insisting on the vaccination of factory employes would be separately considered. Most of the factories in the province are situated within municipal limits in which the Bengal Vaccination Act, 1880, was in force. The operatives therefore in these factories, equally with other residents of the town, were bound to be vaccinated, and no further action has been taken than to call upon all Civil Surgeons as Superintendents of Vaccination to see that the law was carried out. As to the few factories situated outside municipal limits, the Lieutenant-Governor considered but finally rejected the proposal to apply the Vaccination Act to them specially, by treating them as ‘local areas’ within the meaning of section 1 of the Act. It was thought that the object in view would be gained by the voluntary co-operation of the managers and owners of factories with the Vaccination Department, and the Sanitary Commissioner was requested to take steps to secure this with the assistance of the Special Inspector of Factories.

8. Water-supply.—As reported in the previous year, the arrangement for the supply of drinking-water is of very varying character. Where a factory is situated within a Municipality which has a pure water-supply, nothing further is necessary: elsewhere the quality of the water used is very doubtful, except in those factories where filtered water is supplied from reservoirs on the premises. Several factories have introduced such filters, and inspecting officers have been instructed to press this matter on the attention of managers, and especially to invite them to consider the advantages offered by the Pasteur-Chamberland filter, of which excellent accounts are received. In future all District Officers will be directed to report specially into how many factories filtering arrangements have been introduced during the year.

9. Latrines.—There have been marked improvements in the latrines during the year. Many that were originally constructed in a temporary manner of old materials have been replaced by new structures built of brick with cemented floors or of corrugated iron. In the factories where both male and female operatives are employed, separate latrine accommodation is provided for each sex. Good flushing arrangements and constant use of disinfectants have been insisted on, and the number of sweepers where found inadequate, has been increased. Generally it may be said that improvements proposed by inspecting officers have been readily complied with.

10. Number of operatives.—The total number of operatives employed in the various factories was 129,729, against 139,973 reported in the previous year, but the real number should have been 126,012. The error in the figures for 1893 occurred in regard to the Alipore Jute Mill, the average number of men employed in that year having been reported to be 14,201, instead of 240. The number of male adults was 101,631 against 98,511, female adults 18,206 against 17,607, boys 9,053 against 9,196, and girls 839 against 701. The Dacca return has fallen from 5,973 to 4,047, in consequence of a change introduced by the Magistrate of Dacca, who has left out a large number of coolies who were engaged on such incidental processes as collection, storage and shipment of jute, considering that they are not in any way connected with the factory, and should not be counted. The Lieutenant-Governor considers that Magistrate is correct, and directs that this system shall be invariably followed in future in counting the number of factory hands.

11. General health of the operatives.—The general health of the operatives employed in the factories in Dacca, Patna, Rajshahi, and Orissa Divisions was good during the year, no epidemic of any kind having occurred. In the Rani-ganj Paper Mill in Burdwan, cholera and influenza broke out in a most malignant form, resulting fatally in several cases. Some deaths from cholera also occurred among the employés of the Iron and Steel Works of that subdivision. In some factories in the district of Hooghly, cholera made its appearance, though the mortality was not heavy. The mill hands in some places in the 24-Parganas suffered from malarious fever, and there were also some sporadic cases of cholera; but these illnesses occurred among operatives living outside the factory premises in their own bastis, and were not due to the insanitary condition of the factories themselves. Small-pox was prevalent in this district during the year, but very few cases of the disease occurred among the factory hands.

12. Wages and general conditions of the operatives.—There was no material alteration in the rates of wages paid to the different classes of operatives in the year under report as compared with the previous year. In this connection Surgeon-Major Leahy, Civil Surgeon of the 24-Parganas, makes the following remarks:—

“In attempting to strike a correct average among the hands employed in factories, it must be borne in mind that many branches of manufactures are represented. It is common for various members of one family, consisting of men, women and children, to obtain employment together in some of the larger concerns, such as the jute and cotton mills, and in this way the total earnings of the family are very much higher than is the case with the ordinary daily labourer, who alone works for his family. Within the factories, the employés work in shifts, and their periods of work alternate with the periods of rest. Their sanitary surroundings are good; they are sufficiently clad, and they are well fed; so that, on the whole, the condition of the operatives may be said to compare very favourably with that of the outside labourer.”

The Officiating Commissioner of Burdwan, Mr. Bourdillon, observes that factory labour is more popular than work elsewhere, because it provides continuous employment, allows a liberal scale of wages, and payments are made with regularity, and the other reporting officers appear to agree generally in these remarks.

13. Employment of women.—There are no special remarks to be made regarding the employment of women beyond what was stated in the last report. The law and rules are generally observed, and as a rule light work is given to them. In the Jobra Workshop, in Cuttack, the women are employed in carrying water, removing rubbish, and sweeping the shops. In the jute factories in Dacca they are employed in cleaning and sorting jute and rope making. The old women are engaged in feeding the carding and jute-softening machine. Regarding the employment of old women, the Special Inspector of Factories writes:—

“I have always regarded the employment of such as creditable to the managers concerned, for it is evident they can be of little service, except in so far as relieving others during the intervals, or when younger members of the family are sick. This renders it possible for them to live with the family and avoid becoming a burden on them, being able to contribute the little they earn towards the keep of the house.”

14. Employment and ages of children.—In Dacca no certificate of age appears to have been applied for or granted during the year. The only case of misfeasance contained in the reports regarding the employment of children is that of the Bengal Cotton Mills in the district of the 24-Parganas, where 261 male and 25 female children are employed. The Commissioner writes:—“The manager of this mill has often been found to disregard orders and to employ children in his factory under the age of nine years.” A special enquiry has been ordered into this case. With this exception, it is said that in the 24-Parganas the ages of all were duly certified. Dr. R. S. Ashe, the Civil Medical Officer of Serampore, makes the following remarks regarding the certificates of age of children employed in the factories within his jurisdiction:—

“During the year at each inspection as many of the children as were on the premises, and who were admitted since last inspection, were paraded, and all children of doubtful ages were ordered to be examined and certified for further service. It was the one way of dealing with the question of age on the refusal of the manager to get their juvenile workers certified en masse. Still under their system it was found impracticable to examine every new child; numbers would be absent during the day of inspection, and these children would escape all examination, and there was nothing but the age entered in the book kept in the Form F, which was uncorroborated by any examination, to show that the child was not under age. I am therefore very strongly impressed with the experience of the year's working of the Act as regards children that there would be no possibility of any child under age being taken in by mistake (for I do not think for a moment that the managers would deliberately contravene the Act) if each child before obtaining service were to produce a certificate of age from the Certifying Surgeon, or, if this be found inconvenient, be made to obtain one within a week of his being taken into work.”

Mr. Duke, the Magistrate of Hooghly, however, correctly observes that the managers cannot be compelled, under the law, to have children certified. They run the risk of prosecution if they are found employing children below nine years who have not been certified; but the law does not prohibit them from relying on their own judgment as to the age of the children if they choose to run that risk. They are, however, bound, under rule 21, to “bring before an Inspector, on the occasion of an inspection, all children employed in the factory.” Civil Surgeons should insist on having all the children mustered before them, and they will be instructed to this effect.

15. Fencing of machinery.—All the dangerous parts of the machinery were properly fenced, and wherever any defects were noticed during the inspections, they were properly attended to.

16. Accidents.—The total number of accidents reported during the year was 417, against 431 and 338 in the two preceding years, respectively. Of these 19 were fatal (against 11 in the previous year), 193 were of a serious nature, and 205 were slight, consisting of bruises, cuts, and falls. There was thus on an average one person injured to every 311 employed during the year, and one person killed to every 6,827. Of the fatal accidents mentioned above, three were caused from an attempt to adjust belts while the machinery was in motion. As accidents arising from this cause are of frequent occurrence in this country, the advisability of legislative interference to prevent their occurrence has been under consideration. It was thought that a circular issued by

Mr. Walsh to all mills in Bengal and the North-Western Provinces, suggesting the introduction of belt shippers and pulley hooks, would have the effect of diminishing the number of accidents, and the rules to be adopted in Bengal for the purpose of minimising the risk of such accidents, are now under the consideration of this Government.

The following are some of the fatal and serious accidents that occurred during the year :—

(1) On the 2nd July 1894, a servant of the Tarpur Sugar Factory, in Jessore, was fatally injured in an attempt to replace a belt which had slipped off the revolving wheel. He was sent to the Jessore Hospital, where he died.

(2) On the 11th August 1894, a cooly of the Kanchrapara Railway Workshop, while looking after the drawbar couplings being fitted on two third-class carriages on the weigh-bridge line, was crushed between the buffers of the two vehicles, which were being hand-shunted at the time, and met with immediate death. He had been warned beforehand, but disregarded the warning.

(3) On the 6th September last, a man employed in the Shamnagore Jute Mills, in picking the dappering roller of a carding machine, had his hand entangled into the machinery, and in his attempt to extricate himself, fell within and was killed at once.

(4) On the 20th September 1894, in the Cossipore Foundry and Shell Factory, a cooly, while being pulled up by a rope for hoisting a chain, fell down owing to the rope giving way. He died on his way to hospital.

(5) On the 22nd September 1894, a cooly in the Baranagore Branch Jute Mill, while oiling a spinning machine, accidentally slipped over it and received serious injuries, which resulted in his death after lying two days in the Campbell Hospital.

(6) On the 25th September 1894, in the Gouripore Jute Mills, while an employé was engaged in tying on mats to the sides of jute piles, two jute bales rolled upon him, breaking his leg, hand and back. He was immediately sent to the Hooghly hospital, where he died.

(7) On the 31st October 1894, a bale of paper fell out of sling on a cooly of the Tittaghur Paper Mill while a boat was being loaded. The man was severely injured, and was removed to hospital, where he died.

(8) On the 9th November 1894, a moulder of the Cossipore Gun Foundry, while passing by a machine where tin cups were being made, received an injury on his abdomen, by a cup splitting out of the machinery. He was removed to the North Suburban Hospital, where he died.

(9) On the 30th October 1894, a Muhammadan boy of 15 or 16 years of age was found dead, in a sleeping posture, near the boilers of the Bengal Iron and Steel Works at Raniganj. The accident, which occurred near the boilers, was due to a leakage of gas at one of the safety valves, and to the neglect of the men on duty in not stopping it more promptly, and then to their endeavouring to stop it themselves when it had already attained dangerous proportions, without giving any intimation to the officer then on duty. That officer found that five of the men on duty were more or less stupefied by gas, and took immediate steps to restore them to consciousness with success. The Muhammadan boy was not found until long after, and no one could tell what he was doing in that place and how he got there.

(10) A cooly at work in the Champdani Mill at Serampore was caught in the belting while shipping it on to the shafting and was carried upwards to the roof and had his head smashed in. Death was instantaneous.

(11) A cooly at the Wellington Mills in the Serampore subdivision fell into the crankshaft pit and had his back broken. He died half an hour afterwards.

(12) A cooly at the Central Jute Mills was killed while trying to put on a belt that was off the pulley without asking the sardar to stop the engine.

(13) On the 19th May 1894, a workman in the Locomotive Workshop at Jamalpur, named Kadir, while engaged in crane lifting, got his foot badly crushed by a cast-iron flooring plate, which he had neglected to fasten securely with chains and hooks provided for the purpose.

17. Prosecutions.—No prosecution was instituted in any of the factories during the year under report.
